FLOOR DEBATE

March 7, 2002

LB 935

Peterson out of here the Lincoln Journal Star wrote an article, a laudatory article, about how his administration is doing something, but they never mentioned that I had to batter him for two years before he would give consideration to it. I'm fighting for white women and it's not acknowledged. Women need to stand up but, whether they will or not, as a black man, I am going to stand.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Time. Senator Chambers, your light is on next.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And I recognize this is my last opportunity, Senator Cudaback, and I always abide by the rules, would that white Americans in charge would abide by the rules. When matters of voting, education and employment are discussed, those who are deprived of these things are most conscious and aware and most bitter, because in America these things are brought home to us by their being denied to us and our children in a systematic manner. If what is done to us, as black people, were done to you all, there are things you would quickly do to bring that kind of thing to an end. If a black person had blown up that Murrah Building in Oklahoma City, you all know what would be happening to every black man, woman and child in this country. But a white Timothy McVeigh did it, so I didn't hear people running for Attorney General say, well, it's all right to profile young white men who wear crew cuts who are clean-cut, look like the all-American white boy. You don't profile white people ever, but it's all right to profile so-called Middle Easterners, it's all right to profile black people. We get harassed not just for driving while black, but breathing, living while black, and you all think we shouldn't even talk about it. You cannot stand to have it talked about and we live this mess. There are minority group persons who are glad that I will speak because they're afraid to speak. They're so busy cheesing up to white people, trying to say I'm not like him, thinking it's going to do them some good. Then, when they get chopped off, here they come running to me saying they're discriminated against and then they explain to me how they spoke against me to their white friends to try to get some protection against discrimination. But to have to do that to protect themselves from being discriminated against, they are acknowledging the
